

LIFE'S SHORT. GET A DIVORCE.<sup>sm</sup>
ACT II-THE STRONG PERSEVERE

PRESS RELEASE

June 1, 2007

Corri D. Fetman, President of Fetman, Garland & Associates, Ltd., a boutique law firm that provides high quality representation in family law and divorce, hereby announces the next phase of the firm's advertising campaign.

Many of you followed our first advertising campaign which gained international attention and controversy. On May 1, 2007, we displayed our cutting edge billboard in Chicago with hot male and female bodies and the memorable message: "Life's Short. Get a Divorce." On May 8, 2007, without due process and obviously due to political pressure, the City of Chicago ripped down the billboard.

As promised and true to our character, we will not stop our ad campaign due to unconventional censorship. Our campaign and perseverance portray who we are, namely: gutsy, nonjudgmental, creative and strategic lawyers. This lighthearted ad campaign also demonstrates the message we believe which is that everyone deserves happiness. Our message is meant to be thought-provoking and tantamount to a motivational missive to live your best life and be happy. Life is way too short to stay in an unhappy marriage or relationship. If you are unhappy or have other reasons to end your relationship, our law firm can provide a viable solution.

An early preview of the next phase of our "Life's Short. Get a Divorce." advertising campaign will be displayed for the media on June 7, 2007 from 4:00 p.m. to 5:00 p.m. at 612 North Wells Street, Chicago, Illinois. Our message will be presented on two color two sided mobile billboard media trucks which will roam through various Chicago neighborhoods from June 7, 2007 through June 9, 2007, including but not limited to the infamous "Viagra Triangle." This ad campaign has racier images and we believe it will have the cliffhanger effect of leaving the public anxiously awaiting more.

We think our advertising is brilliant and look forward to seeing you on June 7, 2007.

Thank you.
